The universities of Indiana and Nebraska will not compete in football during the season of 1919, as had been planned by "Jumbo" Stiehm and Dr. E. J. Stewart, athletic directors of the two institutions, says a dispatch from Lincoln. Stiehm and Stewart were in conference a week ago in Chicago during the "big Ten" meeting and a tentative arrangement was framed providing for a clash between the Hoosiers and Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Doctor Stewart returned from the Missouri Valley Conference meeting in Kansas City and announced that Nebraska would play Missouri University at Columbia November 8. He stated further that Nebraska would resume football relations with Iowa State College of Ames, a conference member, which would preclude an Indiana-Nebraska game as planned. Faculty objections to the Indiana game are believed to be responsible for the failure of the Stiehm-Stewart negotiations. Notre Dame University, however, is on the Nebraska schedule, the South Bend school being due for October 18 in Lincoln.

The football date ready for definite announcement by Doctor Stewart are: October 11, Iowa University at Iowa City; October 18, Notre Dame at Lincoln; November 8, Missouri at Columbia; November 15, Kansas at Lincoln; Thanksgiving Day, Syracuse University at Lincoln. Games with Minnesota at Minneapolis, Oklahoma at Lincoln or Oklahoma City and Iowa Aggies at Lincoln or Ames are in process of negotiation.

The Nebraska director also arranged for sixteen conference basketball dates during the meeting at Kansas City, as follows: January 22, Drake at Des Moines; January 23 and 24, Ames at Ames; January 25, Drake at Des Moines; January 31 and February 1, Drake at Lincoln; February 7 and 8, Washington University at Lincoln; February 14 and 15, Missouri at Lincoln; March 5 and 6, Kansas at Lawrence; March 7 and 8, Kansas Aggies at Manhattan; March 14 and 15, Ames Aggies at Lincoln.

Captain Jackson V. Scholz, a member of the 1916-17 track team, now at the Naval Air Station, Miami, Fla., will continue his training there, according to a letter to Coach H. F. Schulte. He says:

"I am going to complete the training for my own satisfaction. An ensign, a former Eastern track man, has carried me almost every day as a passenger. He likes 'stunting.' Tried to fly on his back yesterday. While we were upside down 3,000 feet above the bay, I couldn't help but hope that my safety belt would remain well fastened. Lots of fun. Had a meet here Thanksgiving. Caught me in 10-2, but I'm afraid they hurried the watches. I won a fine cigarette case—one of the flat silver kind. Can you beat it? It looks as if I'll have to start smoking. When spring, and the track fever comes along—oh, la! Back next fall though."

C. W. Terry, track '13 '14 '15, Naval Aviation Repair Base, Eastleigh, Eng., writes:

"Peaches sure was one fine boy. Can't find any of the old boys around here, but be sure to keep sending me the dope. Probably be here for some time longer."

Lieutenant Grant Wyatt, Jr., 341 P. A. A. E. F., writes:

"We are still at the front, or what was the front. Here for so long that I feel like a native now. Billeted in what was once a house. Two rooms and some of the roof left, but I have a stove and a fireplace and a bed. Some comfort after the hole that I occupied for so long. One of the men says he knows why every French room has a stove and a fireplace. The stove is to keep the fireplace warm. (Yes, I know that is worthy of one Jackson Scholz.)

"We had quite a little excitement here at the end of the war. In the middle of an attack on the Hindenburg line news came that she would soon be over. Had been half expecting it, of course. But then, just like football, it's the unexpected that happens in war. That the boys did wonderful work goes without saying. Cleaning up the Argonne was undoubtedly the toughest piece of work since Verdun.

"The latter part of the drive was a pipe, and St. Mehiel was easy by comparison, but the Argonne! Well it cost heavily, but at that, it printed 'finis' at the bottom of the Kaiser's history. Probably be sent on to Germany now. Bad part of the whole business is that we can't go on to Berlin. Still all of that is only a small matter. For nearly all of us the chief question is now of home. Now that it's over, I am just as crazy to get back as I was to get over here eighteen months ago. Reppy at Sedan. Don't it beat thunder how truth crushed to earth will rise again.

"Sure hope to be home in time to see a few more feathers drop from that Jayhawk at Convention Hall in March.

"P. S. Forgot to tell you. We don't get any Turkey for Thanksgiving. The darn English got them all in October."

Lieutenant Phil S. Gibson, Hdq. 137 Inf. A. E. F., says in a letter to his brother, Blaine, that he had three weeks at one time and two shorter sessions up at the front. In talking about the incidents of action at the front, he says:

"Regarding the sadder side of war, I think you will find few to tell of it.

The man who has been up front in actual hard action, will not care to talk about it I am sure."

Jack Barlow of the Naval Aviation Camp at Seattle, is back in Bethany. He writes:

"The old company of militia from here was in the Argonne, and got badly cut up. You know that Chuck (Wilson) fought it out with his wound for a month, but it was too much for him. I'll bet he was fighting one when the Germans did get him."

FOOD REGULATIONS OFF

Bakers Back to Normal Conditions Today.

Effective today all the special food regulations are repealed. The bakeries gradually have been returning to normal channels of manufacture and business. Three weeks ago they were given an open market on white flour, and from December 1 have been permitted to buy sugar in any quantity which business demanded. Today all other government regulations governing their business will be removed.

Beginning today breweries will be permitted to use malt and grain in unrestricted quantities, and the special license regulations governing the manufacture of near-beer and other similar cereal beverages, is no longer effective. All rules have been repealed, but this industry is barred from manufacturing beer by the proclamation of the President.

Manufacturers of corn, oats, barley or rye products will be released from all food regulations except the one governing unreasonable profits. The following special license regulations governing operations of elevators, warehouses or other places for the storage of wheat, rye, corn, oats and barley have also been repealed, effective tomorrow:

Rule 2, which limits the storage of grain to a 60-day period.

Rule 10, which limited the amount of unsold grain under control to a 60-day supply.

Rule 11, which limited the sale of grain to giving a buyer not in excess of a 60-day supply.

Rule 12, which provided that contracts for corn, oats, rye and barley must provide for 60-day shipment.

Rule 14, which prohibited the sale of corn, oats, rye or barley for the purpose of manufacturing beer, near-beer or other similar cereal beverages.

Other special regulations which have been repealed, effective tomorrow, are those governing the distributors of fish, dealers in cottonseed products, peanut meal and soy bean meal, dealers in hominy feed, barley feed, rye feed, oat meal feeds and baled hay, wholesalers, jobbers, importers, retailers and brokers of licensed non-perishable food commodities, and those regulations applying to wholesalers, jobbers, importers, retailers and brokers of syrups and molasses.
